The Twenty-Third Sunday after Pentecost

First Reading: Isaiah 65: 17-25

Comment: "A new heaven and new earth"

In this prophetic reading we hear of a blessed time when God will overcome many of life's shortcomings and frustrations. A prophet probably wrote these words in a period after the people had returned from exile but while there was still much cause for discouragement. A new order will come from Jerusalem. No longer will children die young or workers not know the fruits of their labour. Even the animals will enjoy the new age

Canticle 9

A canticle of praise announcing the vindication of those who have placed their confidence in the Lord God.

SECOND READING (The Epistle): 2 Thessalonians 3:6-13

Comment: "Do what is right"

In this lesson Paul deals with the problem of those who are so expectant that the Lord will come soon and are so meddlesome in the affairs of others that they have given up their daily work. These individuals may have believed that they were already exalted to such a spiritual plane that mundane matters were no longer a concern for them. This may seem like piety on their part, but it means they have become a problem for others. Paul reminds them of his own example and bluntly rules that such people should either work or else not eat.

THE HOLY GOSPEL: Luke 21: 5-19

Comment: "Suffering for Jesus' sake"

In the gospel passage the disciples are forewarned of the destruction of the Jewish temple and of great upheavals in the natural and supernatural order that must take place before the end of history. There will be persecutions and divisions in families. Individuals will appear claiming to be Jesus. While in some passages the New Testament suggests that the end and fulfilment of human time will come quite unexpectedly, here the disciples are advised of a period of great tribulation when the powers of evil will make their final onslaught. In one sense this is poetic language used to describe the indescribable, but it insists that the ultimate meaning of life will finally be known.

(Worshippers join hands for the singing of the last refrain)

Refrain

*Bind us together, Lord,
bind us together
with cords that cannot be broken;
bind us together, Lord,
bind us together,
O bind us together in love*

There is only one God,
there is only one King,
there is only one body -
that is why we sing:

Refrain

Made for the glory of God, purchased by his precious Son.
Born with the right to be clean,
for Jesus the victory has won.

You are the family of God,
you are the promise divine,

you are the glorious new wine.
