WELCOME AND MAY GOD BLESS US ALL!

The Twenty-First Sunday After Pentecost

First Reading: Leviticus 19:1-2, 15-18
Comment: "Acts of justice"

In this lesson, the people of Israel are called to lives of justice and love—to be holy because the Lord their God is holy. The goal for the behaviour of God's people is nothing less than the very highest. As God's chosen ones, they are to care for the poor and weak and to avoid any form of oppression. One is to love one's neighbour as oneself.

Psalm 1
 The Lord makes fruitful those who choose the way of righteousness.

Second Reading (The Epistle): 1 Thessalonians 2:1-8
Comment: "The apostle's concern"

In this reading, Paul recalls his first visit to the Thessalonians, the troubles he endured, and the straightforward and gentle way in which he presented the gospel. The opposition that Paul had earlier experienced in Philippi continued in Thessalonica, but, with God's help, Paul preached fearlessly. Unlike certain of the insincere traveling missionaries of the pagan world, Paul acted with integrity and sought in no way to take advantage of his new friends. He and his companions shared not only the gospel but their own selves.

THE HOLY GOSPEL: Matthew 22:34-46
Comment: "Loving God and neighbour"

In the Gospel, Jesus presents the double commandment of love for God and neighbour, and then asks a question concerning whose son the Christ is. The context of this passage is the effort by certain Jewish officials to test Jesus, hoping to force him to make an unwise or unpopular comment. Jesus first responds by teaching that all the law and the prophetic words depend for their understanding on commandments of love. He then asks his own question. Using an argumentative style of the time, Jesus shows how King David (considered to be the author of the Psalms) called the Christ his Lord. Thus, at the very least, the Christ must be more than the son of David. Christians believe this Christ to be Jesus and trust that through him disciples may learn to love both God and neighbour.
